

Erin Breber Video Bio

What sets SVA apart from other accounting firms is we're more than just accountants, we're also business consultants. We really want to help you understand your business. So whether that's figuring out how many profit centers you have in your company or whether it's figuring out how to control your inventory and your cash flow. We're really there to help you manage your business and build company value.

What I really like about working with my clients is when I get the opportunity to come out to their businesses. It's a great way to understand the owner of the business, how they interact with their employees and how their business operates. It's a great way for us to help them figure out how they're going to build value in their company and ways to make them more successful.

What I like about working at SVA is that we have a variety of clients that we get to work on and a variety of industries. We get to help them not only with their financial statement compliance and their tax work but we also get to help them create their software, set up their software and actually understand their business. It's great when we can help them understand how to read their financial statements and how to use that to help build value in their company.