

Caitlin Behncke Video Bio

I decided to become an accountant because I really liked my high school accounting class. I always knew I wanted a career in business, and accounting seemed like a good choice for me because I always enjoy working with numbers and getting things to tie out. Over the years, I've also come to appreciate the problem-solving aspect of public accounting and being challenged with the work that I do.

My favorite part of the work that I do is being able to help clients. It's gratifying to me to know that I can make a difference, no matter how big or small. I also like the diversity of the organizations that I work with. Each one is so different, and I like hearing their story and learning about the amazing things they're doing for our community.

I like to work with my clients by creating a rapport with them and keeping an open line of communication. Whatever the project is, I like to exceed their expectations. I also want my clients to feel comfortable coming to me with any issues or questions they may have, not just at audit time but anytime during the year.
