One of the things that I think that I bring to the table is expertise in rural development financing, specifically projects financed with Section 515 loans and Section 538 loans.

When I was growing up, I was always sort of a numbers guy so when I went to college, I got into an accounting class and after that first course, I knew I wanted to become a CPA.

The thing that gets me the most excited about my job is the new challenges every single day. And also the satisfaction I get from hearing gratitude from clients when I know I've made a difference in their job.

The favorite part of my job is the relationship that I get to establish with the clients. Getting to know them as a person, getting to know their organization and then learning what pains them and how we, as a company, can help service their needs.
