What I bring to the table is my emphasis on tax planning and tax research. I enjoy helping clients identify tax problems and tax issues that come up in legislation and those sorts of things.

What sets SVA apart from other accounting firms is a breadth of services we provide. Other accounting firms provide traditional audit and tax services but SVA provides additional services such as wealth management, trust and estate planning, we do consulting for IT consulting for businesses, and other planning. So we have a lot more services to offer and we have a team of people that can provide those services.

My favorite part of working with clients is helping them to identify problems they have and solve those problems. Usually in my case, it's in the tax area where they may have some compliance or tax planning issue, and I enjoy basically solving either the compliance problem or providing them with the tax planning that offers them savings.
