Jason Oppmann

Director of Financial Strategy and Operations

Jason is the Director of Financial Strategy and Operations for SVA Life Sciences, a member of the SVA family of companies.

In his role as a financial strategy advisor, Jason specializes in developing financial strategies that support the company's innovation and expansion. His background leading finance, accounting, and commercial operation teams gives him a unique consulting perspective to leverage his experience to help companies in both their effectiveness and efficiencies in their financial processes.

Jason has more than 15 years of experience in accounting and financial planning and analysis, including extensive experience in operational and financial processes development and optimization. He has a proven track record of optimizing cash flow, reducing costs, driving operational efficiencies, and resolving complex accounting, reporting, and regulatory issues. Jason has led commercial operations teams as well as being a business partner to every group within the organization. He also has led initial and subsequent financing for early-stage biotech companies.

Prior to joining SVA Consulting, he held finance and accounting positions with various early-stage biotech and larger pharmaceutical companies.
