What sets SVA apart is that we really strive to do more than just the annual accounting and tax work. We really want to become trusted advisors and implement unique strategies that will serve your business better.

I decided to become a CPA because I took an accounting course in high school and really like to see how the numbers could lead you to that next business strategy and I ended up in the tax area because that's a constantly changing environment and I always like to learn new things.

What gets me excited about what I do is that every day is different. Every client has unique needs and finding the business strategy that works best for them keeps me excited to come to work every day.
